THE LOW CARBON COMMUNITY

Be inspired by a visit to Oak Tree House

Woking Borough
Council's low carbon demonstration home

Woking Borough Council has transformed Oak Tree House from an ordinary three bedroom house into a demonstration property for low carbon living

Monitors in the house help track energy consumption

Aerated tap and shower fittings help reduce water consumption

The garden has been designed to be low-energy and drought resistant

A highly efficient heating system has been installed to provide space heating and additional hot water to the property

In addition to the cavity walls being insulated, internal wall insulation has been installed to further reduce heat loss

Solar panels provide most of the hot water and electricity at Oak Tree House

Rain water is collected in an underground tank. This provides water for the washing machine, toilet and outside taps

An ultra-low energy ventilation system has been installed to allow a controlled flow of air into the property
